

Buying screens for 10+ sites?

Ask these three first.

1

Can you control every site centrally?

One dashboard for one site, a region, or every location at once.

2

Is the hardware truly commercial?

Across many sites, every cheap-screen failure costs a site visit.

3

Who creates the content?

If nobody owns it, the network goes stale within months.

Get all three right and it scales.

A screen network becomes one of the most powerful marketing channels a multi-site business can have.

Planning a 2027 rollout?

I'd be glad to help you think it through before you commit.
